

Collection of training session attendee data

IAITH: the Welsh centre for language planning provides a whole range of services including training relating to the Welsh language. When conducting its training work IAITH will invite you to complete questionnaires and provide data regarding the following:

- Evaluation of the sessions
 - Success of the training in fulfilling its aims
 - Relevance of its content
 - Effectiveness of practical arrangements
 - Strengths/weaknesses of the training (and things that could be improved)

We will not collect personal details, and it will not be possible to identify individuals based on the data collected. By completing the questionnaires you will give us the right to use the data for informing IAITH's work (e.g. monitoring and announcements), and to provide it to the organisation that you are a part of.

Data management

IAITH is the controller of the data with this data.

Completion of the questionnaire is entirely optional. However, your views and experiences are important to help IAITH and your organisation to ensure a quality training experience for attendees. The data would be provided to your organisation if they were to request the data.

The contact for this data collection is: Iolo Jones, IAITH: Welsh centre for language planning.
